One good feature is that all the miners who have come so far remain, staking [illegible] and beginning work. Some of the stakes bear date of Sept. and considerable surveying was done last year. He has been especially impressed with the size of the district and the number of the claims and believes there is room enough for all the miners of Colorado.

M'KINLEY'S VIEW.

He Discusses the Tenor of the Wilson Tariff Bill.

[illegible] Nov. 27.—Congressman McKinley arrived in the city [illegible] A Gazette reporter met Mr. McKinley at the depot and asked him [illegible] Wilson tariff bill. The [illegible] had not had an opportunity to give the bill a careful study, and [illegible] only the brief synopsis published in evening papers and was therefore prepared to go into a thorough discussion of the [illegible] He considered the bill as a whole, however, as a very [illegible] free list [illegible] important articles [illegible] coal, [illegible] iron ore, lumber and salt. The average duty was also largely reduced, the [illegible] make the bill between [illegible] cent. The most radical change [illegible] was the changing [illegible] with specific duties and [illegible] the plan of collection to ad valorem [illegible] The [illegible] that had been adopted by administrations [illegible] based on values [illegible] the foreign [illegible] opened the door to the [illegible] kind of frauds against the government.

Mr. Manning, ex-Secretary of the Treasury under Mr. Cleveland, former administration had made a careful review of the whole subject of collection of duties, which paper would make very interesting reading just now for that because the system of ad valorem duties was strongly condemned.

The entire bill, Mr. McKinley said, was in the general direction of the Democratic platform, in which notice had been given that no [illegible] would be paid to the pleas and necessities of domestic industries. In regard to the probability of its passing Congress in its present shape, he had no idea, but sincerely hoped that it would not. Its effect on business he could not foretell, other than to say that manufacturers would now be able to begin preparations to meet it if it should become a law. He had no idea it would meet the approval of the country or even of the great majority of the Democratic party.

Climate in Consumption.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 27.—At a meeting of physicians prescribing the Amick cure for consumption, called to discuss with the discoverer, at his home here, the published assertion that change of climate is unnecessary, Dr. Amick said yesterday: "A warm, dry climate is beneficial if the patient stays in it permanently, but harm always results from a stay of a few weeks or months, when the patient returns to a colder temperature or lower altitude. Unless patients desiring my treatment," he said, "can go away to remain until May, I advise them to take the medicine in the comfort of their own homes, but before they definitely abandon any proposed trip, depending absolutely on my discovery to cure them, I urge each to first try the treatment free of expense, and then decide for themselves. I therefore furnish free test medicines for all having any lung trouble, to enable both physician and patient to judge by results."

TELEGRAPH BREVITIES.

Colorado weather generally fair, south west winds.

General Miles has just returned from the Indian Territory, and while he reports that in the main, affairs are in good shape, he admits there is considerable suffering among some of the tribes.

C. P. Brown, C. W. Macomb and James H. Cullen, officers of the Denver Investment and Bond company entered pleas of guilty of violating the laws relative to lotteries and were fined $100 and costs each, yesterday. The men came from Canton, Dakota.

Mrs. Imogene Hyatt was given a verdict of $5,000 in her suit for breach of promise at Peru, Ind., against Albert Tucker in which $50,000 was asked. Mr. Tucker is 50 years of age, living on a large farm in Kosiuski county, and is worth $250,000.

By the breaking of an axle, one of the cars in the circus train of Sells & Renfrow jumped the track near Ancia, Tex., on the Southern Pacific, yesterday afternoon. The badly injured are: Jas. Scullon, Hugh M. Guark, Paul Crokhaas, Elijah Smith, George Bell.

Directum, the champion trotter, record 2:08¼, defeated Saladin, the pacer, record 2:06¾, in a match in the Point Breeze track of the Philadelphia Driving Park Association yesterday. Directum won the last three heats and the race in 2:10¼, 2:11¼, 2:12.

A skirmish occurred between the rebels and Murtون colonists, near Colonia Pacheco last Wednesday. The Mormons numbering seven were ambushed by over forty Indians. The Mormons made a stand and killed one rebel, wounding several, after which the little band retreated into a canon where they held their position all night.

Window Shades.

"Don't," counsels a woman, who speaks from a recent and experience, "buy shades without trying them at a window to get their exact tint with the light shining through, and in hot weather, be sure to shade their environment—the tint that may not be set in a brownstone or red or gray stone house having its influence.

"The hanging the shades and curtains of a house are often taken as a test of the taste of the occupants—many times rightfully, but almost as many times the record is the result of thoughtless and hurry prolonged buying, and is more of a trial to the inmate than to the passing critic."—Exchange.

A LIVELY CAMP.

Shipments From Cripple Creek Steadily Increasing.

SOME LATE IMPROVEMENTS.

[illegible] the Summit, Doldata, strong [illegible]

News from the Camp.

[illegible] CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 27.—Much gratification is expressed in the camp among the business men upon the formation of the proposed Chamber of Commerce. The idea is now well in hand and will undoubtedly prove a great success.

Everything points to a very busy winter here, a great deal of construction is going on in the town, favored by beautiful fall weather and the absence of snow. Fuel and feed are in demand. A large brick block is about to be erected at the corner occupied by Messrs. Fairley Bros.' store on Bennett avenue. The elegant Episcopal church on the side of the hill facing the [illegible] is now completed and is a [illegible] landmark in the town. The [illegible] Bishop of Colorado, formerly dedicated St. Andrew's church on the 23th inst. A large bell has arrived and will be the first [illegible] bell rung in Cripple Creek. Church [illegible] to which the lady ex[illegible] interested in this good work are [illegible] invited. The Rev. C. Y. Grames is the esteemed minister of the Episcopal congregation.

The shipments to the smelters are [illegible] increasing, the older shippers are now [illegible] their own and in [illegible] increasing their shipments, while new ones are daily being added to the list. There are no less than forty four and six horse teams making the regular trips between this and Canon City.

The Chicago and Cripple Creek Tunnel company's tunnel is now in 600 feet. A syndicate of Chicago capitalists headed by James McPatrick recently purchased a controlling interest in this concern, which is located in Poverty Gulch, below the Gold King. A new management has been formed which will push operations in the tunnel as rapidly as possible.

A large shaft house and hoisting machinery is about to be placed on the Bonanza claim at the foot of Gold Hill recently leased by George A. Jones. There are many tons of sylvanite ore on the dump of this property and to the mill which will pay handsomely for treatment.

Encouraging reports continue to come from the Little Buena on Mineral Hill owned by Messrs. Chambers and McHenry. The vein is slowly widening out.

Some specimens of brown jasper taken from the Victor mine were being exhibited yesterday which call for special attention. The jasper possesses a beautiful polish, is very uncommon, and runs upwards of $20 to the ton in gold.

The Victor gives employment to sixty men.

The Summit people are still cutting through an immense body of ore in the Lady Sixth. Owing to the irregular formation on this hill the vein proper is hardly defined, but the working of the mine is easy in the extreme, the quartz which is all free milling, being at its present stage simply quarried out. It is claimed, and apparently with justice, that the Summit property is the least expensively worked gold mine in the State.

From forty to fifty tons are being shipped daily to the Summit mill at Beaver Park from the mines of the company on Globe hill.

The Dolphin lode, located on the western slope of Globe hill is showing up very well and the owners have now reached some fine gray quartz very unlike that found in this portion of the hill, which is usually heavily tinted with blue stain of iodorine. This blue stain, however, by no means proves high value in the ore. In the case of sylvanite ore, however, it is a favorable indication of good values and where the quartz is close grained.

The east drift on the Londonderry is in 100 feet and is yielding a good grade milling which is being regularly sent to the mill.

The Strong mine is employing twenty-five men and has five four horse teams steadily employed hauling its product to the railroad. The second grade is being sent to the mill.

The Gold and Globe mill is running steadily on Independence ore.

There will be little diminution in the output during the coming winter, unless the roads are blocked by heavy snows.

A large new shaft house is to be erected on the Lee property of the Isabella company, forty thousand feet of lumber having been purchased for that purpose.

The shaft of the Elkhorn on Mineral hill is down eighty feet with a north easterly drift running from the base. A cross vein has been cut through. The ore is quite free milling.

The new telephone system connecting Cripple Creek with the outside world is expected to be in operation by the middle of December.

Work on the Deerhorn has practically ceased, two or three men only being employed.

Work continues steadily in the Anaconda tunnel and other portions of the property. Ore of a higher grade has been found and some of this is being treated at the Sylvanite mill.

Two or three good-sized scandals have lately cropped up in the camp.

The Jack G., on the west side of Raven Hill, the property of the New York Mining and Milling company, has struck some very good ore in a cross cut from the bottom of the shaft, over a hundred feet down. The vein is supposed to be the Ingham vein, and the values are in the form of silverite. The ore looks exceedingly rich.

Negotiations have been closed with Messrs. Bennett & Myers for the purchase of a 10-acre tract of ground for a public cemetery. The new cemetery is situated a little out of town near Mount Pisgah on the old road to Florissant. This is also a great public improvement.

The brother of George Lear, the man who murdered Mrs. Bullock at Altman a few days ago, has been convicted and sent to jail for defrauding a boarding house keeper.

The Mary Ann, one of the properties owned by the heavy real estate and mining firm of Messrs. Kissel, Otis & Connor, is showing up remarkably. Development work is being rapidly pushed.

The Granite vein on Battle mountain has been opened on the extreme north end of the property about five hundred feet from the main workings.

The many friends of Dr. J. A. Whiting will regret to hear that he has been on the sick list. He is now in a fair way to recovery.

Messrs. Smith, Spinney & Co. are working steadily on the Dead Pine lode, from which a fair quantity of good milling ore is being turned out.

MILL BURNED.

Another Old Landmark Destroyed by Fire Last Night.

About 12:30 this morning many people were awakened by the shrill whistling of a [illegible] in the Pe[illegible] illuminating the skies south of the city, and an alarm was soon turned in at the city hall. The fire was in the old Pike's Peak mill building south of the Rio Grande tracks, and the department went to the scene as speedily as possible. When they arrived the building was already destroyed, but the Jacksons put a stream on and extinguished the burning wreck.

The property is owned by Weed & Theobald and they valued it at about $2,000. Mr. Fred Theobald said last evening that he has $2,500 insurance in companies represented by Mr. A. L. Lawton, but that only represented about half the loss. There was only one load of grain in the building that was to have been milled to day, and the machinery was in very good shape. The mill was erected in 1874 by Mr. Weed and in the early days it did a large business. It was a frame building, two stories in height. Mr. Theobald was operating the mill as he has done for many years past. He was there all day yesterday and says there has been no fire in the place for a long time. What caused the fire no one has any idea.

The fire last night emphasized the fact that a hose company should be placed in the southwestern part of the city. On account of the railroad tracks and the distance from a plug it is doubtful if even a paid department could have gotten to the fire any quicker, but the fact remains that the houses are thickly built in the southern part of the city and are mostly small, so that they burn quickly and are a long distance from the nearest hose house. The France hose had a line of pipe, but did not have enough of it to reach the fire. The Crowells and College also came onto the scene.

WE ARE ALL RIGHT.

What a Prominent Merchant Says of Business Here and in the East.

Mr. L. A. Giddings, of the extensive dry goods establishment of Giddings Bros. & Hurt, returned a few days ago from a tour among the leading jobbing houses in the east. Yesterday in talking with a Gazette representative he gave some opinions that should at least carry a degree of satisfaction to those who feel that Colorado Springs is seeing trying times. At least it is always a satisfaction to know that there are people in the world who are worse off than we are, if the old adage that "misery loves company" is to hold good. Mr. Giddings says the wholesale men of the east tell him that business has dropped off 50 per cent. from that of last year. In New England very little is being manufactured and that only in lines where it is absolutely sure to be sold. The condition of business and of the people in some parts of that section is something fearful. He believes they are much worse off than we are, although it is the general belief that Colorado is in bad shape. Mr. Giddings says that so far as he can learn business in Colorado Springs in every line has not fallen 20 per cent. behind what it was a year ago. As to the dry goods business and his establishment in particular, the business for October and November is only slightly under what it was in the same months last year. At no time has it ever fallen anywhere near 50 per cent. The firm up to the first of July when the panic came had been doing the largest business ever shown for the same time in any year. The business in August made the poorest showing as compared with the same month a year ago, but that was hardly a fair comparison as the conclave visitors were here in August, 1892, and the trading was large in all lines. Mr. Giddings is of the opinion that Colorado is in good shape in spite of all that has been said, and after looking the situation over both East and West can see brighter times ahead and not very far distant either.

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Money on call has been easy, ranging from 1@1½ last loan at 1½ and closing offered at 1½ per cent. Prime mercantile paper 4@5½ per cent.

The recommendations of the Ways and Means committee on the proposed tariff bill demoralized the market for the industrial stocks today. Prices broke badly and the trading in these issues reached the enormous total of 203,376 shares, of which 118,852 were American Sugar. This stock also led in point of decline, falling from 92¾ to 85½. The proposed reduction in the duty on refined sugar was considered a severe blow to the company and there were people in the trade who claimed that it meant a curtailment, if not a cessation of dividends by this corporation. So far as the railway list is concerned, it may be said that it held up remarkably well, considering the break in the industrial group. Toward the end of the session, however, there was more disposition to sell the railways and a general decline followed. Railway and miscellaneous bonds were not affected by the demoralization in industrials and further advances were scored. The business was again very heavy reflecting the steady increase in the current demand and the transactions amounted to $2,000,000.

A Four Story Tunnel.

M. Hanemann, a well known Russian engineer, laid before the minister of public works at St. Petersburg recently a plan of tunneling the Neva. The tunnel is to be circular, its diameter being 12 miles and its length 185 miles. Altogether the tunnel would much resemble that under the Thames. M. Hanemann intends a four story construction, the upper one containing ducts for electric wires, the second containing a passageway for pedestrians, the third a wagon road and the fourth to be used for rapid transit.—Herne Francaise.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL.

The text of the proposed tariff bill is furnished to the whole country at the same time as it is given to the minority of the Ways and Means committee. So far as any opportunity is concerned of influencing legislation, or even of getting information as to the intentions of the majority, the minority might as well not be on the committee at all.

The bill is just about what was expected, except in the sugar schedule. It is an attempt at a revenue tariff, and it fails at both ends. That is, it fails to provide sufficient revenue, and the duties are not all laid for the purpose of revenue only.

The first of these facts should be fatal to the new bill. A tariff which is avowedly for revenue only, and which does not provide revenue enough to meet the government's expenses, is a self-confessed failure. Revenue could have been raised by the imposition of a duty on sugar, but the Democrats were afraid to get their money that way. They were afraid, too, to get it by laying a bigger internal revenue tax on whiskey or beer; so they have failed to make any provision for making good the deficiency, except a sort of hybrid income tax.

This last named tax is sure to create a great deal of discussion. There is grave reason, in the first place, to doubt its constitutionality. The constitution says that no capitation or other direct tax shall be laid unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.

The present proposal seems to be an attempt to evade this provision of the Constitution. If it is enacted, a test case will doubtless be made and brought before the Supreme Court as soon as possible.

But any income tax is open to objection, on other grounds. Mr. Bourke Cockran, who is one of the leading Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee, recently stated the case against such a tax very strongly. He opposes it on the ground that it is class legislation, and that it is levied on the theory that the rich have a greater interest in the government than the poor. He believes that the poor man is just as much interested in the government as the rich man, and should contribute of his means for its support just as much in proportion to his income. This is certainly good old-fashioned Democratic doctrine, and the other Democratic members of the Committee will have hard work to give any satisfactory answer to Mr. Cockran's argument.

On the whole, the new bill is a very feeble effort. It does not follow the "demand" of the Democratic platform; it is illogical and inconsistent; and it is inadequate. It certainly ought to be defeated, and we should not be much surprised if it were defeated.

TROUBLE IN EUROPEAN CABINETS.

Both the French and the Italian governments are just now in a very precarious state. In France, M. Dupuy has resigned and President Carnot is having a very hard time to get anybody to take his place. In Italy, the report of the Parliamentary committee on the Banca Romana scandal has so implicated Premier Giolitti and his predecessor, Signor Crispi, that neither of them can hold office. So great was the excitement on Sunday that rioting began in Rome, and was quieted with difficulty.

In Italy the government has another trouble to contend with that is worse than the parliamentary crisis—it is bankrupt, and its credit is apparently gone. It seems that the only thing for it to do is to retrench on expenditures, and quit trying to keep up a big army like France and Germany and the rest of the Powers with a big P.

These cabinet troubles in Europe ought, it seems, to afford an object lesson to those people in this country who are accustomed to lament, every little while, that we do not have here a responsible ministry, with seats in Congress. Our own system is much more stable than the European, and preserves [illegible] legislative and executive functions.

President Cleveland has not been generally considered a hypocrite, but what do these words mean, in his letter to his "great and good friend," President Dole of Hawaii:

"I am pleased to believe that Mr. Blount, during his mission, devoted all his efforts to strengthening the good understanding and the friendly relations which happily so long existed between the two countries."

It may please Mr. Cleveland to believe that Blount spent his time strengthening the friendly relations with the present Hawaiian government, but most people will find it difficult to believe any such thing, whether they please or not.

Mr. Wilson estimates that his new tariff will bring in $70,000,000 less revenue than the present tariff. The only way to make up the deficit is by direct taxation.

Reports from Creede say that the output of ore there is greater than at any previous period in the history of the camp. Reports from Leadville give rosy accounts of [illegible] at Granite. Goose Creek is filling the Gunnison region with prospectors. The new camp near Hartsel has 200 men already, and there will be four times that number before Christmas. Things seem to be looking up, all around.

Whatever may be said against Mr. Powderly, there is a general agreement that his administration of his great office has been on the whole wise and conservative.

Don't Want It.

The press and the people of the State of Colorado are practically unanimous in opposing the holding of an extra session of the Legislature. Nobody can see any good in it. It is the general opinion that it would do harm than good. It could accomplish much benefit for certain localities, but there is no probability that it would take the action necessary to do so. Pueblo and Fremont counties, for instance, would be eagerly in favor of the session if they could get their big canal completed, but we all understand that when the Assembly would meet its time would be wholly taken up with the consideration of chimerical schemes and windy discussion. If a man could lift himself over the fence by pulling on his boot straps there might be some possibility of Colorado people adding to the value of silver, but there would be about as much expectation of a discovery of perpetual motion as in any really beneficial legislation coming from the proposed special session. It ought to be dropped.—[Pueblo Chieftain.

THE SWIFT COLUMBIA.

She Can Fight Anything of Her Size on the Seas.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—The recent remarkable performance of the United States cruiser Columbia on her trial trip in making over 22 knots an hour and earning for her builders a premium of $300,000 has set the entire world to talking about American shipbuilding. It has again demonstrated that when the United States starts out to do anything, it, to use a popular but expressive phrase, "gets there."

The Columbia is the fastest vessel afloat, faster than any merchant vessel or man-of-war possessed by either Great Britain, France, Germany or Russia, the four great naval powers of the world. There are only two other vessels in existence with triple screws, the Dupuy de Lorme in the French navy and the Kaiserin Augusta in the German.

The Kaiserin Augusta is a magnificent vessel, but in no respects the equal of the Columbia. She is nearly 2,000 tons smaller and at least a knot slower. Our commerce destroyer could get away with the pride of the German navy easily. The Columbia can fight anything of her size on the seas, and should she fall foul of an ironclad she could show a clean pair of heels to the enemy. She leads the world.

A World Beater.

When Secretary of the Navy Herbert was told of the great speed made by the cruiser, he said that he regarded her as the fastest and best all around ship of her class in the world, and then he went on to talk about the great progress which had been made in American shipbuilding during the past few years. Naturally Mr. Herbert is proud of having such a magnificent vessel in our navy and that she will be placed in commission during his administration.

The secretary's remarks recall the fact that it was only about 10 years ago that we first commenced to build modern ships. Up to that time we had a fleet of wooden tubs which were the sport of politicians and favored contractors and the contempt of the rest of the world. Nobody thought we needed a powerful navy. Everybody knew we did not have one. As a result, when some little six by three South American republic wanted to have some fun Uncle Sam was selected as the victim of their peculiar style of humor because it was known that we had no ships to promptly revenge an insult. These South Americans took very good care not to interfere with English subjects or English property. England has an uncomfortable habit of talking through her cannon.

But, having started to build a navy, we made rapid progress. American "hustle" told. Before the world knew anything about it we had half a dozen or so of first rate cruisers, and now we are building battleships which will be second to none. We already hold the blue ribbon with the Columbia.

It was the pugnacious little republic of Chili that found out to her sorrow that there was such a thing as an American navy. Chili started in to have some fun with the United States, and having one or two good ships of her own thought they would be more than a match for America's antiquated wooden walls. It was a sort of painful surprise to find out that we had more and better ships than Chili could ever hope to possess, and that if it came to a question of fight we could blow the entire Chilian navy out of the water without much effort. When these South American fire eaters discovered this they backed down.

Out of Date.

During the past two years our men-of-war have done good service. Had the Boston not been in the harbor of Honolulu last January, the future history of the Hawaiian Islands might be written in another chapter, and probably by this time it would be an English possession. That's a little habit England has of suppressing revolutions and incidentally acquiring territory. She went in to preserve order in Egypt a few years ago and she is still engaged in that task. The Egyptians must be a very unruly sort of people.

The Boston, by the bye, may be called the pioneer of the new navy. She was one of the Roach cruisers, built under President Arthur's administration and when William E. Chandler was secretary of the navy. Roach built the Boston and Atlanta, sister ships, and the Chicago, which was the flagship of the famous white squadron and the first modern vessel of war the United States ever sent to European waters. It was said at one time that these ships were unstable, but they have all done magnificent service and are still in good shape. They are a little bit out of date now—fashions change in naval architecture almost as fast as they do in bonnets and wraps—but they can still hold their own against vessels of their size.

Just now we have a large naval force at Rio de Janeiro, and our men-of-war are helping the war vessels of other nations to see to it that the lives and property of foreigners are not destroyed by the rebel Admiral Mello. The United States has more vessels at Rio than any other nation, and Captain Picking, who, at present is the senior American officer, has more to say about what shall or shall not be done than any other commander.

The Cipher Code.

Talking about the navy and the Hawaiian affair, it is rather singular that all the telegraphic dispatches which come to the state department are transmitted in the navy department cipher code. All telegrams to our ministers or naval officers are sent in cipher so that their contents shall not be known to the telegraph companies. The state department thought it had a code which could not be read by any one not possessing the key, but within the past year there have been evidences to show that the state department messages have been tampered with.

The navy department code is so intricate that it defies the ingenuity of even Ignatius Donnelly to unravel, and whenever an American minister is stationed at a port where there is a United States vessel he takes his dispatch to the commanding officer to have it put in code form. These dispatches are all then addressed to the secretary of the navy, who has them translated and sent to the secretary of state.

It is a very [illegible] work to translate a code message [illegible] transmission a word [illegible] misspelled [illegible] mistake [illegible] telligible. Then it has to be sent back to the officer, who is required to repeat it. This happened last week with a dispatch from Captain Picking at Rio. It was known that the telegram was of the utmost importance, but the translators could make nothing out of it. It cost the government a good many dollars and a most annoying waste of time before that mistake could be corrected.

ART THAT WILL WASH.

A Chinese artist came here on an oriental steamer and has been selling some queer things in red, green and yellow to his admiring countrymen. He paints on silk and linen as a rule, but will turn off gem pieces on white paper. His taste, however, runs to large pictures on grass cloth, painted in a panoramic way which permits him to sketch a scene along several linear feet of space. Occasionally he has been at home to paint by the acre and with both hands, he is not dismayed by a huge canvas, but with calmness and industry will proceed to illuminate a whole set of bed sheets with blue elms and green roses and diabolical Chinese gods and women and lovers.

One picture that he showed a reporter was said to represent a garden party, though it needed some assurance at first to dispel the idea that it was a catastrophe at sea. What looked like the raging main, however, was really a Chinese turf, and the bent and bedraggled object in the foreground was not a wreck, but a tree. An awful print of a lost Celestial maid in the grasp of a devilish proved to be one of an almond eyed damsel twined in the leaves and tendrils of a flowering shrub. Instead of slippery squids, as one might have supposed, were tambourines, and a rock in the boiling surge was only a pagoda set in the heather and bushes.

A series of small paintings told a romantic story very dear to the Chinese heart. The hero of the pictorial tale was the strongest man in the empire, having become an athlete under the teaching of his wife, who was a female Samson. Together they challenged the world without soft gloves and "bar sinister." In course of time, however, war came, and the wife was overpowered and taken away, leaving the husband very miserable. As the artist paints him standing mournfully at the door of his deserted lavender house, great vermillion tears roll down his mauve complexion, stain his green vest and trickle along his chromatic trousers andink into the scarlet and yellow earth.

Then 20 years go by, and another war ensues. Two armies meet, and the strongest champions go forth for a preliminary combat. Behold! The man and wife are sent against each other, and the artist rises to the occasion. He shows the husband holding his dulcinea out at arm's length by her belt, and as he bears her away toward a saffron river which runs between sky blue banks he has a fierce, bewildered joy on his face that invites not a pearl tinted breeze, but a Chinese hurricane to blow through it. She, meekly the captured giantess, demure and sweet, has surrendered without a struggle.

The visiting knight of the brush uses pigments that will wash, and boasts that one of his pictures can go through a Chinese laundry without the loss of the natural blue tint on a maiden's cheek, or the delicate bronze flush of an opening flower or leaf.—Hawaiian Star.

Queer Visiting Cards.

Many are the uses to which the cactus is put, but one of the queerest is that which prevails in Cape Town, South Africa, where cactus leaves are made to serve the purpose of visiting cards. It might occur to the reader that a package of thick leaves covered with prickly spines would not be easily accommodated in an ordinary cardcase.

The leaves of the special kind of cactus used for this purpose are not very prickly, however, and furthermore these unique cards are not carried about, but are left growing on the plant which stands at the foot of the front steps. When a lady calls, she has only to take a hatpin from her bonnet and scratch her name on the glossy surface of the leaves, while a gentleman accomplishes the same end with his sharp penknife. The lines thus scratched turn silver white and remain clear and distinct on the leaf for years.

On New Year's day these cactus cards are particularly convenient, and popular hostesses often appropriate a large branch of their cactus plant to the registry of visits received on that day.

There is one cactus, which is not especially plentiful, which not only has smooth leaves, but has spines so large and stiff that they make excellent pens, and visitors are saved even the slight trouble of drawing out a hatpin or a penknife.—Youth's Companion.

A Good Audience.

The Rev. Lyman Beecher was once engaged to preach by way of exchange for a country minister, and the day proved to be very cold and stormy. It was midwinter, and the snow was piled in heaps all along the roads, so as to make the passage very difficult. Still the doctor urged his horse through the drifts till he reached the church, put his horse into a shed and went in.

As yet there was no person in the house and after looking about he took his seat in the pulpit. Soon the door opened, and a single individual walked up the aisle and took a seat.

The hour came for opening the service, but there were no more hearers. Whether to preach to such an audience or not was only a momentary question with Lyman Beecher. He felt that he had a duty to perform, and that he had no right to refuse to do it because one man only could reap the benefit, and accordingly he went through all the services, praying, singing, preaching and benediction, with one hearer. And when all was over he descended from the desk to speak to the "congregation," but he had departed.

So rare a circumstance was of course occasionally referred to, but 20 years after a very delightful discovery came to light in connection with this service. Dr. Beecher was traveling in Ohio, and on alighting from a stage in a pleasant village a gentleman stepped up to him and called him by name.

"I do not remember you," said Dr. Beecher.

"I suppose not," said the stranger, "but we spent two hours together in a house alone once, in a storm."

"I do not recall it, sir," replied the old minister; "pray where was it?"

"Do you remember preaching 20 years ago in such a place to a single person?"

"Yes, I do indeed, and if you are the man I have been wishing to see you ever since."

"I am the man, sir, and that sermon made a minister of me, and yonder is my church. The converts of that sermon are all over Ohio."—Youth's Companion.

In the Transvaal.

No proper census has ever been taken of the natives in the Transvaal. According to the last estimate, the approximate number of the native tribes living within the limits of the district is 392,328, consisting of 79,071 grown up males, 100,723 females and 202,534 children. The two principal tribes are the Basutos or Makatis and the Magwambas or Knobnoses, the latter being 75,000 strong. The tribes living in the Zoutpansberg range are estimated by the German missionaries at 100,000 souls. The white population is put down by the last official census at 4,668, of whom 2,732 are males and 1,936 females, the density of white population being 0.156 per square mile.

Numerous travelers have visited the district, mostly on their way to the interior, but large tracts of country on the eastern border are unexplored and only known to the hunters who visit this part of the country during the winter season to hunt buffaloes, giraffes, rhinoceroses and even ele[illegible] [illegible] found in the [illegible]glous. But owing to the tsetse fly and poisonous plants these hunting trips have to be done on foot or with donkeys.—New York Tribune.

...would have thought it. The old woman kicked like fury when she found that I was going, because it would ... times, but I finally quieted her down by promising for that I would bring her a new bonnet ... the ... city goods store in Chicago.

Suddenly, there flashed upon the vision of the newcomer 10,000 blinding lights. The great basin was bordered with a fringe of living fire; the noble buildings were aflame; the majestic dome of the Administration palace was outlined against the black drapery of night in gracefully sweeping columns of golden glory; from the four corners of the Manufactures building shot the rays of the blinding searchlights, cutting out pathways of shimmering silver far over the lake; then, to cap the climax, the electric fountains began sending high in air the iridescent columns of rainbow tints that broke into luminous spray and fell in spangled splendor upon the burnished bosom of the basin.

"What do you think of it? What do you think of it, Bill?"

Bill did not hear a word. He was in paradise. His senses were ravished with ecstasy.

"Bill! Bill! what do you think of it?"

But his "eyes like two stars started from their spheres." Finally he came back to earth long enough to ejaculate, "I'll be darned if I believe it!"—Boston Herald.

His Bad Luck.

It was a sharp, sunshiny October morning as I rode along the back of Pine mountain where it overlooks Virginia and Kentucky, and I was thinking about the loveliness of nature and cognate subjects when I came upon a mountaineer with a gun in his lap, sitting on a log where two or three mountain paths converged.

"Good morning," I said breezily, for I felt good.

"Mornin," he responded.

"Beautiful morning," said I.

"I hain't noticed," said he.

"Been hunting, I see," said I, nodding toward the gun.

"Yes—some," said he.

"You haven't had very good luck, I should judge."

"I haven't had none," said he surlily.

"What's the matter?"

"Derned ef I know," he said, getting up and taking a look around. "I've been waitin here on this log since sun up for that leather faced Jim Mullins, an I haven't got a crack at him yit." And he tried the hammer of his gun, gazed off down the path from which James might come, and with a hasty good morning I trotted along down another road.—Detroit Free Press.

CHANGE IN TIME OF THE
"MISSOURI PACIFIC FAST MAIL."

Commencing Nov. 12, 1893, the great Missouri Pacific Railway Company will shorten the time of its fast mail train, eastbound. Under the new schedule this justly popular train will leave Denver at 4 p.m., Colorado Springs at 6:25 p.m., arrive at Pueblo at 7:10 p.m., leave Pueblo at 8 p.m., arrive Kansas City 7:30 p.m., leave Kansas City at 8:25 p.m., and arrive at St. Louis at 6:55 a.m., where a direct connection is made in Union depot for all points north, east or south.

By this change in time a direct connection is made at Pueblo with D. & R. G. Train No. 6, from the west, and D. & R. G. Train No. 104, from Southwestern Colorado, enabling passengers to make a great saving in time over the present eastern connection.

By this change in time the great Missouri Pacific Railway Co. has demonstrated its warm friendship toward Colorado, in again reducing the time between the West and East.

THE WABASH ROUTE

IF YOU ARE GOING EAST

It will be to your advantage to know:

The Wabash is the Short Line between Kansas City and St. Louis.

The Wabash is the shortest and most direct route between Kansas City and Detroit or Toledo, connecting at both those points with the Trunk Lines East.

The Wabash forms the most convenient route from western points to Chicago, and lands passengers in Chicago more conveniently to the World's Fair lines than any other road.

The Wabash runs finer equipment for both first and second class passengers than any other route.

Call or write C. M. Hampson, Commercial Agent, 1224 17th St., Denver.

MID-WINTER FAIR.

The Mid-winter Fair at San Francisco will open on January 1st, and continue throughout the winter, where all the principal exhibits from the Columbian Exposition, Chicago, will be displayed, will be an additional attraction this winter. The great improvement in passenger train service, higher degree of comfort in the cars, shorter time required on the trip, combined with the cheapness of the excursion tickets now being sold to California and back by the "Santa Fe Route" make the journey agreeable, and one can almost say, economical.

The many delightful resorts now established in California afford every comfort and luxury desired by the fastidious, and present unique attractions. The Hotel Del Coronado, San Diego; the Raymond, Pasadena; the Redondo beach and hotels at Santa Barbara, Monterey, Riverside, Los Angeles and many other points have grown famous as any on the Atlantic coast, and a fact that should not be forgotten is that they all are resorts all the year round, although the greatest number of tourists are in California between the months of November and May.

This line offers choice of routes going and returning.

Bald Heads!

What is the condition of your? Is your hair dry, harsh, brittle? Does it split at the ends? Has it a lifeless appearance? Does it fall out when combed or brushed? Is it full of dandruff? Does your scalp itch? Is it dry or in a heated condition? If these are some of your symptoms be warned in time or you will become bald.

Skookum Root Hair Grower

is what you need. Its fame is not an accident, but the result of merit. Ignorance of the diseases of the hair and scalp led to the discovery of how to treat them. "Skookum" contains neither minerals nor oils. It is not a Dye, but a delicately cooling and invigorating Tonic. By stimulating the follicles it stops falling hair, cures dandruff and grows hair on bald heads.

It keeps the scalp clean, healthy, and free from irritating substances, by the use of Skookum Soap. It deodorizes perspiration and gives a delicate fragrance to the hair.

If your druggist has not it, tell him to supply you and direct to us, and we will forward, prepaid, on receipt of price (Grower, $1.00 per bottle; 6 for $5; Soap, 25c. per cake; 3 for $1).

The Gazette has a larger circulation in Colorado Springs than all other daily newspapers combined

All men, especially strangers, are welcome—

Every day, at the Y. M. C. A., cor. Tejon and Kiowa streets.

All strangers are welcome—

Every Wednesday evening, at 7:30, at all the churches.

Every Friday evening, 7:30 to 9, at the Winter Night College, cor. Nevada Ave. and Bijou St.

Pastors of churches are requested to furnish such further notices as they desire to publish.

Mr. M. F. Warren yesterday began an auction sale of his stock of jewelry. Large crowds were present all day.

The Woman's auxiliary of the Keeley League will hold a social this evening at the institute. Refreshments 10 cents.

Mr. William Atkinson and wife of England have been guests at The Antlers for the past week or more. Mr. Atkinson was at one time a well known member of the English Parliament.

An entertainment is being arranged for Dec. 8 by the deaf and blind children of the State institution. The participants will be selected from among the young pupils, especially the kindergarten classes.

The regular November business meeting of the Y. M. C. A. will be held tonight in the parlor at 7:30. Twenty-eight applications for membership have been received thus far. There should be at least two more received to-day.

Tickets for the football game between the High School and College Hose teams can be purchased at Robinson's drug store, the Consolidated Stationery company, and all the usual places. The game will be called at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Admission 25 cents.

Cards have been received in the city announcing the marriage of Miss Mary Simmons and Mr. Geo. W. Nichols at Summerside, Ohio, Nov. 22. The bride is quite well known in this city, having taught in the public schools for several years. Mr. and Mrs. Nichols will live in Hartwell, Ohio.

Large numbers of young men are using the reading rooms of the Y. M. C. A. every day now. There is, however, still room for more. It is the purpose of the committee having charge of the reading matter to make it still more attractive. Subscriptions for new periodicals are already being sent in.

Secretary Buckman of the Chamber of Commerce, has been making a canvass for Cripple Creek ores, to be used as specimens at the Cripple Creek bureau of information, soon to be opened. Some of the best mining companies up there have agreed to furnish handsome exhibits of ore, but it is wanted from every part of the camp.

On Saturday last a company was organized at Colorado City to prospect for oil or gas near that place. The company will have a capital stock of $100,000, and $1,500 has already been subscribed to begin the work. The following officers were elected: J. D. Faulkner, president; R. S. Briscoe, vice president; John McConch, secretary; M. J. Myers Smith, treasurer.

The funeral of the late Henry A. Wilson occurred from the family residence, 621 North Tejon street, at 2:30 yesterday afternoon. Rev. James B. Gregg conducted the services and in his short address paid a high tribute to the worth and sterling integrity of the deceased. Mr. Worrall Wilson arrived from the east yesterday morning in time to be present at his father's funeral services.

The ministers of the city, at their meeting yesterday afternoon, arranged for the union services on Thanksgiving and Christmas. The union services on Thanksgiving this year will be held in the First Presbyterian Church and Professor J. M. Dickey will deliver the sermon. The Christmas services will be held at the First Christian Church and Rev. Dr. Clark will deliver the sermon.

Professor J. M. Dickey has been at work for some time arranging a lyceum course of lectures to be given in the city during the winter. Nearly all the arrangements are now completed and the first lecture will be given on the evening of Dec. 5. The speaker will be the Hon. J. J. Ingalls, ex-United States Senator from Kansas. These lectures will probably be given in the High School auditorium.

During the absence of Mr. Chas. Martin, chief clerk at The Antlers, Miss Nellie Murphy, cashier, has been acting as second clerk and has been filling the position with credit to herself and to the entire satisfaction of the guests. This is rather a new departure in women's work and if other hotels could secure such capable clerks as Miss Murphy has proved herself, no doubt it would become quite the fad with our leading hotels.

The pupils of Mr. Boyle's School for Boys held their autumn "field day" at the grounds of the Country club, on Saturday morning. The boys were out in full force and quite a number of their friends witnessed the sports. The boys were divided into four groups, according to age, and in contention for first place in fifteen different events the competition was spirited. The principal has offered a medal to the boy in any group taking the greatest number of points in two field days. It is held by Ehrich now, who took fifteen points on Saturday, but if he keeps it permanently he must also take the leading place at the spring field day.

"Friends."

One of the best attractions booked to appear at the Opera House this season is Edward Milton Royle, supported by the well-known actress Selena Fetter-Royle, and an excellent company, in "Friends," next Saturday evening. An exchange says: "Friends" is in four acts, possesses decided merit, being pleasing in plot and entertaining in climax. Many of the scenes are ingeniously contrived and the parts are fitted together with skill. The story told in "Friends" illustrates characters peculiar to the charmed circles of Bohemia, while they are nevertheless known as well to every day life. Two friends, the one a poet and the other a musician, love the same woman, the last-named being loved by her in return. Each and every scene pictures charmingly the devotion and self sacrifice of the two men, and throughout, the theme is amply sustained in interest. In its entirety the comedy is attractive and interesting, and there are numerous situations full of effect."

Who Owns the Caverns.

Nearly the entire day yesterday in the District Court was taken up with the case of Snider vs. Rinehart, what is usually known as the Manitou Grand Caverns case. The suit is to determine whether Mr. George Snider owns the caverns or whether Mr. Rinehart has a half interest, and depends upon the location of the corner stones in the original survey of the townships or township in which they are located. The case was tried once and went to the Supreme Court, where the decision was in favor of Rinehart. Last summer, however, Judge Allen of Denver ordered the case to be re-opened upon a showing that new evidence had been discovered that put a different light upon it. Judge Bowen of the Third district is hearing the case at the present time. The plaintiff is represented by Harry Lee and Mortimer Taylor of Denver, and Judge McMorris of this city, and the defendant by Judge McNeal of Denver. It will take another day at least to finish the case.

MINES AND STOCKS.

Summit stock was traded in for a few thousand at from 15¼ to 15¾ yesterday. A very handsome retort was shown in Allward & Pearson's, and it is expected that these will be very frequent from now on, as the property is now in thoroughly good order for effective work.

Two adverse suits were filed with the District Clerk yesterday as follows: The Cripple Creek Syndicate Mining and Milling company vs. The Iron Clad Mining company, the Summit adversing the Park lode; also J. C. McCoy et al. vs. Robert M. Wamac et al., the Shoo Fly vs. Surprise lode.

Creede and Cripple Creek was very much in demand yesterday. It sold from $6 per thousand at the opening to $10 at the close. A number of big blocks were sold. It is probable that the lease and bond on the Little Mary by the company for $12,000 and the subsequent releasing for $33,000 to a third party is the cause of the activity in the stock.

The mining stock market was extremely brisk yesterday, unusually so in fact for Monday. The tone of the market was decidedly strong and the stocks advanced all along the line. Isabella continued to climb up yesterday. It sold last night at 21 to 23½c but very little seems to be offered under 25c. Work was decidedly lively and large trading is reported. It was quoted late last evening at 5½c. Calumet is decidedly stronger and large sales are reported. It was hard to get the brokers to agree upon a price but it is from 4½ to 4¾c. Anchoria Leland is hard to get but is quoted at 3½c bid.

The Fannie Rawlings property has now a very bright outlook. From reports presented at a directors' meeting on Saturday last it appears that the mine is now shipping twenty tons of ore per day to the smelter. Since the renewal of work on Oct. 20, under the direction of the new superintendent, John Temple, the mine has sent seven or eight lots to the smelters and has 250 tons more on hand. Out of the receipts of these shipments all the floating indebtedness has been paid and there is a surplus of $800 in the bank. The ore at present nets $15 per ton above all expenses and the ore body shows no signs of diminishing. There are fifteen men employed, including an assayer and a blacksmith.

Hagaman & Shepherd of Cripple Creek are selling a great deal of mining stock as well as real estate at this time.

"Sweet Charity."

In the Artists' Exhibition of 1891 at the New York Academy of Design, there was exhibited an oil painting by J. G. Ferris, entitled "Sweet Charity." Its richness of coloring commanded instant attention, while the lesson it taught was so impressive that one naturally returned to it for a second view.

It subjects a young lady of colonial times who is on an errand to one of the poorer families of the town. She has a sensible, charming face, which expresses with remarkable fidelity the sentiment of her errand. There is not a home that this charming picture will not ornament. It must be seen to be appreciated.

"Sweet Charity" was purchased by the Publishers of The Youth's Companion, and has been reproduced in colors in large size, 16x21.

It will be sent to all new subscribers to The Companion who send $1.75 for a year's subscription, and the paper will also be sent free from the time the subscription is received to January, 1894, and for a full year from that date to January, 1895. This offer includes the Double Souvenir Numbers published at Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's. Address,
